'Receiving this award is an indication that, for me, deciding to take the plunge and move to Taiwan for grad school was, in fact, a decision that "makes sense". So many little decisions have brought us here to this moment. As a GHP cohort, we've invested years into gymnastics, the sciences, being involved in our communities, education, Chinese, and more. Little did we know we'd be pursuing a degree so far from home together. We have the rest of our lives for all the decisions that are to come and along the way, indicators like this are signals to us that despite the uncertainty, we can do well while traversing the unknown. I'd like to thank our faculty who've been both flexible and enthusiastic this past year as we work together to have quality experiences exploring global health, as well as my classmates for being supportive to me and one another.'
