

The NTU "Public Health E-paper" want submissions from YOU!

To promote communication between teachers, students, colleagues, alumni, members of other academic institutions, and the general public, the College of Public Health at National Taiwan University will soon begin publishing its own "Public Health E-paper." Each issue will include a themed "Public Health Column" as well as a "Life Column" section. The "Life Column" section will span a range of different topics. It will feature life stories, club activities, and learning experiences, to name a few. Students, colleagues, alumni, and the experts or general public in the related areas are welcome to contribute.

Covid-19 has ravaged the world since the end of 2019. The epidemic is gradually under control, due to all walks of life running around to prevent the epidemic. This is especially true for public health alumni who are sticking to their posts in different types and levels of health care systems. These experiences and memories are worthy of writing and recording. For this reason, the NTU Public Health E-paper has set up this column as a communication platform, inviting alumni to share their experience in the frontline of epidemic prevention.

To contribute, please note the following:

1. The 010 issue of the Public Health Column will be themed " Food safety in daily life ". We welcome relevant comments, perspectives, and up-to-date information covering one of the topics: food safety issues (academic or current affairs issues), food analysis, nutrition and health, food safety dissemination, risk assessment, food toxicology, big data analysis and high-throughput research methods, food fraud (Food adulteration and fraud).
2. The 010 issue of "Life Column" will be open to any topic. In particular, we invite you to share your experiences at NTU Azalea Festival, at public health night 《 PHotograph 》 ,at a public health camp, at internships, or any related experiences you might have.
3. The 010 issue of "Frontline Experience in Covid-19 Prevention" invite you to share your experiences of front-line clinical medical care and epidemic prevention work.
4. The deadline for submissions is April 30, 2023. The issue will be published on May 31, 2023.
5. The current editorial team members are Teacher Chia-Cheng Wei and Reuben Wang from the College of Public Health.
6. The decision to accept a manuscript for publication is up to the discretion of the editorial committee.
7. To make a submission, please upload submitted articles to the online submission platform (Online submission link: <https://reurl.cc/gZrQM7>) before April 30, 2023. For publication and notification after acceptance, the content of the platform must indicate the service unit or department, professional title, contact number, and email in the manuscript.
8. If the manuscript has drawings, please attach a .jpg file to facilitate the typesetting.
9. The manuscript fee is $1/per word and $2,000 as the upper limit. The "Life Column" manuscripts are limited to 1500 words.

10. In order to protect copyright, please check the following before submitting:
- (1) Please confirm that the submitted manuscript has not been published in other publications and that the text/pictures are original by the author; if it has been published in other publications, please seek permission from the original publication office for reproduction, and note where the publication is from.
 - (2) In order to encourage teachers, students, and colleagues to contribute and to maintain copyright, reprinted or published works, news, and event promotion will not be paid according to regulations.
 - (3) For all works accepted and published by this journal, the right of publication and reprint belongs to this paper. If you need to reprint or repost, please contact the editorial office.
9. If you have any questions, please contact our assistant, Chih-Hsuan Wu. (NTUPH.epaper@gmail.com)

Sincerely,

The Public Health E-paper Editorial Team